Green Stink Bug

Are large crop pests and prefer eating and infecting the seeds of plants, vegetables, and fruits. Are present in large agricultural areas across North America from late Spring until the first frost of the year.

Spined Soldier Bug

One of the few stink bugs that actually is a benefit to have in your garden. These stink bugs will kill other garden insects by feeding on the and will do no harm to your plants. Keep in mind though, that these stink bugs may have a better chance of attacking you since they are not herbivores.

Two Spotted Stink Bug

This is another stink bug that attacks other insects in your garden. This type of stink bug will not feast on plants and will generally eat/kill 65+ garden pests every 1-6 weeks. While the normally feast on other insects, they can sometimes eat plants, but are considered a good stink bug to have.

Rough Stink Bug

Yet another helpful stink bug. This stink bug lives mostly in the east and will eat caterpillars, beetles, and other bugs which have a soft shell/body. They will release a very powerful scent when disturbed so don't touch these guys.
